UPRISE 2025: The Art of Resistance

March 8th – 29th, 2025

In celebration of The Untitled Space's 10th anniversary, we are proud to present "UPRISE 2025: The Art of Resistance" an exhibition curated by gallery founder Indira Cesarine, which will take place during Women's History Month this March 2025. One hundred artists have joined forces for this landmark exhibition, opening on March 8th in honor of International Women's Day, and on view through March 29th, celebrating a decade of art, activism, and unwavering resistance at The Untitled Space. Since its inception, the gallery has featured over 50 exhibitions and presented the work of more than 500 artists—many of whom have used their platforms to inspire and empower others while speaking out against political injustice, inequality, and oppression. UPRISE 2025 continues this legacy, bringing together artists whose work confronts the challenges of today's social and political landscape, and envisions a future rooted in justice, equality, and freedom.

Presented in collaboration with non-profit initiative Art4Equality, the UPRISE 2025 exhibition celebrates the power of art to inspire resistance, fuel activism, and catalyze change, and will feature works that address the most pressing political, social, and cultural issues of our time. As we continue to face rising political extremism, threats to civil rights, and an increasingly authoritarian climate, UPRISE 2025 provides a platform for artists who use their work to respond, resist, and reclaim their power.

This exhibition brings together artists of all genders from The Untitled Space's extensive history of exhibitions, along with several new exhibitors, many of whom have used their art to address issues such as gender equality, immigration rights, reproductive justice, and social justice. With a particular focus on the ongoing struggle for women's rights, LGBTQ+ rights, immigration rights, and the fight for equality across all races and genders with the attacks against DEI (Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion) programs, the UPRISE 2025 exhibition is a declaration of resilience in the face of adversity. This powerful exhibition will explore how art serves as a vital tool for resistance and activism in the face of the current political climate.

"At its core, UPRISE 2025: The Art of Resistance is a powerful reflection of art's enduring role in activism. The exhibition not only reflects on the political and social forces that threaten our fundamental rights but also empowers viewers to take part in the resistance. As we celebrate The Untitled Space's 10th anniversary, this exhibition honors a decade of artists who have used their platforms to speak out against inequality, oppression, and injustice. UPRISE 2025 continues our mission to amplify voices that are too often silenced, challenging the systems that perpetuate inequality while offering a hopeful vision for the future—one where justice, freedom, and human dignity are not just ideals, but realities.

I am incredibly proud of the artists we have had the privilege to work with over the last decade. The works in this exhibition not only respond to the political climate but also serve as a call to action. They remind us that despite the setbacks, we hope that the power of resistance, creativity, and solidarity will continue to shape a more just and inclusive future. It is a reminder that the struggle for equality and justice is ongoing and requires our collective engagement. This exhibition is deeply personal for me, as an artist, curator, and advocate for social change. It is an exploration of how art can be an act of protest, how it can inspire hope in the face of adversity, and foster solidarity in the fight for justice. At The Untitled Space, we've spent the last decade pushing boundaries, and this exhibition continues that legacy with urgency and purpose." – Curator Indira Cesarine
